Cascadia Community College recently received a $50,000 grant from Washington Campus Compact (WACC) and Learn and Serve America to promote and expand service-learning on campus. As part of the grant, Cascadia will partner with University of Washington Bothell on events and projects.

Cascadia will use the new grant to develop more service-learning courses for students and continue existing ones, provide professional development for faculty in service-learning, and strengthen partnerships with community organizations and local leaders.

Service-learning courses combine community service work with classroom instruction. The community service work is intended to give students a better sense of the issues facing their communities and to further their understanding of course material.

Kirkland Arts Center announces the appointment of Lauren Erlinger as Director of Development. As Director of Development, Erlinger will create and oversee a comprehensive development strategy alongside the Board of Directors and Executive Director. In addition to grant prospect research and writing, Erlinger will oversee the Kirkland Arts Center membership and individual giving programs and will facilitate corporate sponsorships and service partnership relationships.

Erlinger joins the Kirkland Arts Center after earning a Master's degree in Arts Management from the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Lake Washington Technical College (LWTC) recently signed an agreement to expand its sister school relationship with the Korea Polytechnic Colleges (KOPO), an organization made up of 43 technical colleges in South Korea. The new agreement enables KOPO students to attend a South Korea technical college for their first year and then attend LWTC their second year. The first group of KOPO students are scheduled to attend LWTC in the 2008 Fall quarter.

Lake Washington Technical College (LWTC) recently received a $281,000 state grant to expand its nursing education program. The Washington State Board for Community and Technical Colleges (SBCTC) awarded the grant, called the Hospital Employee Education and Training grant, to LWTC to help meet the growing demand for more health care workers locally and statewide.

"This grant will enable us to partner with local hospitals, labor groups and community colleges to find new ways to expand nursing programs and to increase the number of nurses in the community," said Dr. Sharon McGavick, LWTC president.

The grant funding will be used to develop a prototype nursing training program. The program includes live interactive television classes between hospitals and colleges, alternate scheduling systems for current hospital employees, and special cohorts for existing programs. The partners with LWTC for this grant are Stevens Hospital, Valley General Hospital, Everett Community College, Edmonds Community College and SEIU Healthcare 1199NW.
